Possibility of a recount in the Edmonton city polls loomed up this afternoon when members of the South Side Independent committee expressed their willingness to raise half the amount necessary for a recount, if the election was adjourned. The amount involved is about $250.

These behind the move for a recount are supporters of Joseph A.
Clarke who was dropped by only a few votes when his turn in eliminating him was up.

A recount might affect Captain J.
C. Brown also, as he was only 25 votes down when the last meeting was held.

This morning Clarke stated that he would do everything in his power to secure a recount, if the election was adjourned. He stated that he would do this because he was sure that he would win.

Latest election summaries give the government 40 seats, Labor 4, Conservatives 4, Labor 4 and Independent Labor 4.

Of the seven seats which are still in the doubtful column Liberals led 3, the government in 3 and Labor in 1.

Liberals will undoubtedly get the largest number of these seats and will be the second largest group in the next legislature.

Proctor Green, Montreal, Weta-kin and Leblond in all of which Liberals were leading or running neck-and-neck with government supporters on the first count, have now swung definitely into the U. F. A. column.

U. F. A. in the second count.

Labor is a government gain as it was represented in the last legislature.

CONSTITUTION IS DISCUSSED DOMINION DAY

Ottawa House Debates the Question of Privilege From Every Angle

"HIS EXCELLENCY WAS ILL ADVISED"

Conservatives Up a "Blind Alley," Declares E. J. Garland, Prog.

OTTAWA, July 2.—At the opening of the House of Commons Thursday afternoon Sir Henry Drayton tabled the orders in council appointing the prime minister and acting ministers of the present government. Production of these orders was requested by the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, Wednesday.

Immediately they were tabled, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, rose to a question of privilege on a "matter which affects the rights of the House, namely, the matter of our own constitution." Mr. Lapointe read the order in council which had just been tabled, "I agreed with the gentleman who was in the House of Commons (Mr. Henry Drayton) that these are unusual times."

At this point Mr. Drayton rose to a point of order. Mr. Lapointe replied that the question of privilege could be brought up at any time, and that he was not concerned by the matter. It was a matter of privilege affecting all members of the House, and it was discussed by all. Sir Henry then agreed that the debate go on.

Mr. Lapointe declared that laws could not be evolved in the ordinary conditions. He then proceeded to read the order in council appointing the prime minister and acting ministers. He said that these were unusual times.

Many Citations
The acting minister of justice, Ernest Lapointe, said that he had been cited in the House of Commons on many occasions. He said that he had been cited in the House of Commons on many occasions.

Fences Don't Bother Lucky Strike

Fence offer no problem for "Lucky Strike" if he takes them all with a little effort as he shows here. His owner, Miss Lucy Hamilton, is riding him in the fourth annual horse show at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn.

Those who were acting ministers at present "accepted their seats" legally and all the votes that they have given in the House ought to be taken out and expunged from the record.

Forty-third, called out a Conservative member. The Hon. Hugh Guthrie, acting minister of justice, then rose to reply.

He should tell his prime minister that it was his duty to say to the government general, "My ministers, I am sorry that they are not ministers of the crown." This should be brought to His Excellency's attention, and he would say for some one else to say that the business of the country was conducted in a proper way.

Why didn't you do that when you were in office? asked Sir Mackenzie King.

Never once was the government of this country in a position to say that it was his duty to say to the government general, "My ministers, I am sorry that they are not ministers of the crown." This should be brought to His Excellency's attention, and he would say for some one else to say that the business of the country was conducted in a proper way.

PALE HANDS

By HAZEL DUTY BACHELOR

Lella Keston, who has always been accustomed to illness, is left without money, she finds her son friends are of the fair-weather variety and because she has never been taught to do anything is forced to take a position as lady's maid with Miss Kingston, the family of a wealthy banker, and Harry and she are now in the hands of Harry Keston, who is as good as dead, and she is again herself, but this time the girl is a different person. Lella Keston, who has always been accustomed to illness, is left without money, she finds her son friends are of the fair-weather variety and because she has never been taught to do anything is forced to take a position as lady's maid with Miss Kingston, the family of a wealthy banker, and Harry and she are now in the hands of Harry Keston, who is as good as dead, and she is again herself, but this time the girl is a different person.

CHAPTER XV Getting Adjusted

Lella's plan for remaining with Mona only until she could train her self to take a better position remained a dream, when she discovered that she had only one evening to herself. At that time it would take a long time to convert a country to a city and to convert a city to a country, but nevertheless she was not to be deterred. It was a hard task, but she was not to be deterred. It was a hard task, but she was not to be deterred. It was a hard task, but she was not to be deterred.

DOROTHY DIX

"No Theory is More Mischievous Than That It is a Wife's Duty to Blurt Out Everything She Knows to Her Husband," Says Dorothy Dix, Who Believes Silence is More Golden Than Even in Matrimony

It is no new change to bring against women in say that they talk too much.

The chief thing, however, where women's tongues get into trouble is in the home, and it is her habit to keep her own counsel that brings down upon her husband the most serious of all domestic wars which she suffers.

Curiously enough, instead of recognizing this main for blabbing as a weakness and trying to correct it, women account it a sign themselves for righteousness and honor of it.

You often hear a wife say, with a smile of self-satisfaction, that she tells her husband everything, and that he knows her inside and out. And then the poor, foolish soul wonders why her husband and the other half is silent in her face.

For no people are so trifling as us as those with whom we have to relate every subject, and none are so boring as those who tell us everything.

For the total fascination of the new woman to the average man is that he doesn't know her. She is fresh, curious, and she is full of life.

Why, for instance, should a man, who is overburdened with business and other cares, have to listen to the details of his wife's domestic life?

Every woman who has been married long enough to get her wisdom teeth has found out that there are certain things that she has the effect upon her husband that a red rag has on a mad bull.

But if she is always telling him what a grand bargain she made at a market-down sale, and how she traded off the rag, she is sure to make him feel that she is a little bit of a fool.

And, if she is always telling him what a poor manager she is, and how she has lost her money, she is sure to make him feel that she is a little bit of a fool.

Wise is the woman who checks her fascinations that turns out to be a waste of time, and who puts the lid down on her own mouth.

The old proverb which says that silence is gold and speech is silver is never more wisely illustrated as in matrimony, where the more you talk the more you lose.

THE FLAPPER OF 1925 She is an active girl—dancing, swimming, playing tennis, golf, and all the latest sports—she is a flirt, a coquette, and a flirt.

INTERNATIONAL ISSUE IS RAISED

U.S. Coastguard Cutter Aired to Battle on Canadian Waters

Associated Press

RUFFALO, N.Y., July 2.—Details of a sensational conflict on Monday night between two members of the crew of the United States coastguard cutter C.G. 2205 and Amos Vandervoort and C. M. Munn, mariners on alleged Canadian run runner out of Port Colborne, during the course of which a dozen shots were fired, a coastguard cutter captured and both the boats beached near Point Abino, Ont., has just become known.

The clash occurred in Canadian waters, it is stated, and the international issue raised by the incident has caused considerable comment at Washington and Ottawa. The latter city, however, has been silent.

One Craft Rammed
It was only when the Canadians came away with the lumbering boat, that the incident became known. In trying to escape capture, the Canadian boat, named the "United States" and one of the mariners, named "Munn," was rammed by the cutter.

The United States cutter was mounted in United States waters, and the Canadian boat was fired on in Canadian waters. The incident occurred within a mile or so of the Canadian shore.

CANADIAN CUSTOMS IS INVESTIGATING REPORT
OTTAWA, July 2.—An investigation is being made on behalf of the Canadian government, it is reported, of the incident which occurred last Monday when a United States coastguard cutter fired on a Canadian boat said to be running liquor from Lake Erie. The department of customs has ordered a commission.

RED CROSS HUT FOR VETERANS

Executive of Society Here Adopts Resolution at Special Meeting

Strong disapproval of any action which would deprive the soldier his rights as a citizen, and the use of the Red Cross Hut for the purpose of the sale of liquor, was expressed at the special meeting of the executive committee of the Red Cross Society of this city, held last night. The suggestion that the Red Cross Hut be used for the sale of liquor was rejected by a vote of 10 to 2. The executive committee of the Red Cross Society of this city, held last night, rejected the suggestion that the Red Cross Hut be used for the sale of liquor. The suggestion was made by a member of the committee, who stated that the Red Cross Hut was being used for the sale of liquor in other cities. ## CALGARY BEATS LOCAL ELEVEN ON FAST PITCH

Heathcote Proves Star Batter, With Col. Weaver Close Second

Associated Press
CALGARY, July 2.—The Calgary club scored a 17 to 10 victory over the representative team in the annual inter-city baseball game, Thursday afternoon at the Golf Links pitch. There was a large and enthusiastic crowd of followers of the game on hand to witness the contest.

Calgary's victory was a surprise to many, as the representative team was considered the favorite. The Calgary team played very fast and the batsmen were very successful. The representative team's innings were very short and the game was over in a matter of hours.
